

Robinson Jeffers Association Grants Program

The Robinson Jeffers Association provides several grants a year of up to $500 for projects that accord with our mission to support the study of Jeffers's work, life and times. We award grants for work including but not limited to scholarly research, translation, performances of or creations of original artwork associated with Jeffers, publication expenses (e.g. permissions), and educational projects at all levels such as curriculum design and new teaching initiatives. Awards are made year-round. All applicants for awards must complete an application, which is then reviewed by the RJA Executive Committee. All applicants for grants must be current members of the RJA.

Application Requirements:

- 1) Cover letter.
- 2) Description of project, including a time-line.
- 3) Full budget.
- 4) Current Curriculum Vitae; feel free to include copies of relevant publications or other supporting works that reflect your interest in and qualification to execute the proposed project.
- 5) Two letters of support.
- 6) Information on any institutions or organizations that will also be involved in the execution of the project.

RJA will not deliberate on incomplete applications. Upon receipt of a complete application, RJA will do its utmost to respond within six weeks, although response times during the summer may be longer.

RJA may fund a project in full or in part.

RJA expects applicants to disclose other funding applications and awards. If a project is approved and funded, applicant agrees to acknowledge the Robinson Jeffers Association in all publications, lectures, and public announcements related to the project.
